NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS. — Secretary-Director E. J. Milder of the Northwest Territory Celebration Commission of Ohio announced the selection of the forty-eight key cities in Ohio where the colorful pageant commemorating the settlement of the territory will be presented during April and May. They are Marietta, Athens, Beverly, McCamelsville, Zanesville, Cambridge, New Philadelphia, Canton, Akron, Kent, Warren, Ashtabula, Chardon, Cleveland, Oberlin, Norwalk, Sandusky, Fremont, Bucyrus, Mansfield, Mt. Vernon, Delaware, Newark, Columbus, Lancaster, Circleville, Chillicothe, Springfield, Washington, C. H., Bellefontaine, Kenton, Findlay, Bowling Green, Toledo, Defiance, Van Wert, Greenview, Dayton, Oxford, Hamilton, Cincinnati, Georgetown, Manchester, Hillsboro, Portsmouth, Gallipolis, Pomeroy and Belpre. The pageant will be staged by the personnel of the ox team covered-wagon caravan which will leave Ipswich, Mass., on December 8 and will travel the original route of the pioneer settlers to Marietta. Six states, of which Ohio was the first, were carved out of the Northwest Territory, which was established by the Ordinance of 1787.

Although sixty-eight new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Ohio during the twelve-day period ending September 8, there is apparently no danger of an epidemic, according to Dr. Finlay Van Orsdal, chief of the division of communicable diseases of the State Department of Health. Nearly 300 cases of the disease, with several fatalities, have been reported this year while during the entire year 1936 only 340 cases were reported. Dr. Van Orsdal stated. The peak year for the malady in Ohio was 1927, when 1170 cases were reported. The fewest cases were reported in 1932, when the total was eighty-one. School officials throughout the state are watching fall developments with anxiety, it was said.

"When I meet with rural people I am encouraged for I realize that there is no real danger of 'isms' in America as long as you are around; you cherish and support the principles which are necessary to maintain our government." That was the assertion made by Director E. N. Dietrich of the State Department of Education in an address at the Ohio Conference of Rural Young People at Ohio State University. He added that in his opinion as long as the United States has her "good rural folk" there is not much chance of success by subversive forces. Practically every section of the state was represented by the 107 girls and 118 boys who attended the four-day conference on "opportunities for rural youth."

State Ranger L. T. Worley reported 17,860 visitors registered at Rock House, scenic state park in Hocking county near Logan, during August. Those who register during August, a portion of the total number of guests, he said. Foreign countries represented on the visitors' book included Canada, China, Germany and Sweden. Of the total guests during the month, 16,395 were Ohioans, Ranger Worley said.

As the result of a new ruling, more than 50,000 former Civil Conservation Corps members in Ohio become eligible for re-enrollment in October instead of next April, it was announced here by J. Ois Garber, director of CCC activities in the state. The ruling permits former CCC members to re-enroll six months after discharge instead of one year as in the past. Mr. Garber urged prospective applicants to contact county selecting agents at the earliest possible date. To be eligible the applicant must be single, be between the ages of 17 and 23 inclusive, be unemployed and in need of employment, be physically and mentally fit, and be a citizen of the United States.

Infantry Reunion
Held Near Xenia

Forty-six former members of Company F, 330th Infantry, 83rd Division, a World War unit, attended their 16th annual reunion during the weekend at the John Bocklett cottage, Stone Road, south of Xenia.

The one-time "buddies" from Greene, Clinton, Fayette and Highland Counties spent the time informally, renewing friendships and re-discussing the division of communicable diseases of the State Department of Health. Nearly 300 cases of the disease, with several fatalities, have been reported this year while during the entire year 1936 only 340 cases were reported. Dr. Van Orsdal stated.

Your State House
And Mine

PAUL YODER, Lieut. Governor

All I know is what I read in my mail.

Youngtown has again "come to the fore."

Recently that city was the center of news in Ohio, leaving us with widely differing opinions, and at many times thoroughly confused.

I have had many evidences from Youngtown of good sound thinking and a rare spirit of fairness, which has given me better understanding of the views of "city fathers."

Their frank discussion of the relief question brings us to another point which for several years has been an objective of mine but now becomes a main objective.

I think we can agree that too often we folks back home are unconsciously opinionated because of any one of several good reasons. These opinions are not usually based entirely on facts and a thorough understanding of all sides of any subject.

The Youngtown Vindicator recently carried an editorial entitled "Fast-Finding for Law-Makers," part of which I quote:

"American universities have talked and taught about the scientific approach and the way to determine objectively what ought to be done in any given circumstance."

"But seldom has an effort been made to approach a problem of government in a truly scientific way. Our legislators in Columbus and Washington, and to some extent, in city halls obtain much of their information from lobbyists who are paid to serve particular interests."

"Often a state legislator is called upon to vote 'Yes' or 'No' on a comparatively simple bill about which he has been given conflicting information. Sometimes he is powerless to determine the facts. At best, a legislator in such circumstances does not have a good job of guessing. If there were an agency which would supply 'undressed up' facts he would be able to vote correctly on a multitude of bills."

The only facilities the legislature now has for a thorough study of any subject is that of special investigating committees which, too often, have taken on a tinge of scandal rather than constructive correction.

The attempt was made recently to use this investigating committee method in the Highway and Liquor Departments, but, due to barriers, it will be thrown into court on the question of legal authority, leaving us in the legislature with only one alternative—that of an unofficial volunteer group such as the present unofficial relief committee.

NOW COMES THE TIME FOR LOYALTY TEST

With the announcement this week that Hon. Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, will be a candidate for the nomination for governor on the Democratic ticket against Gov. Martin L. Davey, interest centers on the faction of the Democratic committee behind the Governor and the other faction floundering in bewilderment by the Sawyer announcement, Homer Henrie, chairman of the controlling committee may yet have more of a task on his hands than impeaching a Greene county sheriff.

State patronage in the county from the expert shovel and pick appointees to the higher-ups has all come from Gov. Davey. The test of loyalty faces many Democrats in the county. To back Davey and Sawyer win the nomination and election, means the air for all Davey followers. We shall watch with interest the factional lineup in the county that the record can be kept straight. Our prediction at this time is that Chairman Henrie is already out on the end of the limb.

Since Gov. Davey has taken an approved stand for law and order and respect for court decisions in labor disputes, he has won the enmity of the racketeer labor bosses but the same can be expected if Mr. Sawyer wins the nomination and election. It is forecast that whoever the Republicans nominate and elect labor union leaders and their followers must obey the law. Ohio stands in a fair way at least for two more years of having a governor the nation can feel assured will give support to our courts, that is more than Indiana, Michigan and Pennsylvania can say.

ANOTHER CASE OF "HE KEPT US OUT OF WAR"

The European situation coupled with that in the far East has created a "new appeal" for the New Deal but not one that has created as much comment on the exposure of high-up Democrats as members of the Ku Klux Klan. Once more we are given the Roosevelt pledge that the nation will not engage in war, this statement being based on reports from Bernard M. Baruch, New York Jew Wall Street operator that holds the reputation of making and unmaking presidents.

Baruch was the middleman between foreign nations and Woodrow Wilson, betraying the latter it was not long until the U. S. declared war and several millions young men were soon in camps or on foreign soil regardless of the Wilson presidential pledge "He kept us out of war." Baruch made Wall Street interests hundreds of millions. He sold Herbert Hoover "down the river" and now the "Father Devine" of Hyde Park publicly pledges the nation as safe from war infested territory based on what Baruch reports following a tour of Europe.

Baruch was the god-father of Hugh Johnson, the custodian of the Blue Eagle in NRA days, when Wall Street interests received New Deal blessings while placing the heel of the government under Johnson's orders, on small business and small manufacturers.

It is well the New Deal has annexed Bernard M. Baruch, outside of Wall Street, we know of no other interest, political or economic, that cares for his advice.

HOW LONG WILL THE DOLLAR STANDARD PREVAIL

It was unusual to read this week of the financial plight the Cincinnati schools are in, especially coming at the opening of the school term. Cincinnati schools opened Monday and face a certainty of at least four weeks vacation during the holidays and an early spring adjournment.

At the last election the citizens of Cincinnati voted down a special tax levy and another levy will be voted upon at the coming November election. This is a strange situation especially as Cincinnati is the home of Robert Taft, the father of classification of property for taxation. Hundreds of millions of personal property in that city goes tax exempt under classification, which was sold the farm organizations, but when more money is needed for schools, fire or police protection, real estate must carry the load. The plight of the schools is to reduce the financial load or find more tax revenue.

This brings us to the point of how long can the taxpayers of the state continue to make possible the "dollar standard" for public school, as well as college or university training? Each year we find all branches of education on a higher dollar standard. The young man from a poor home has less chance for a medical education today than two years ago, and go with other professions. Our best physicians, attorneys, ministers and other professional men and women did not all come from families regarded rich.

That the "dollar standard" is not popular in some sections is best proven by the demand for teachers from the smaller colleges in the state. Instead of making it easier for young folks to gain a higher education or training for a profession, the "dollar standard" is making it harder.

FRIDAY IS CONSTITUTION DAY

Today we celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States, the most remarkable document in the history of any civilized government. That it has existed over this expanse of time proves its worth and what the framers saw in the future. It has been amended at times but for good and specific reasons. Today the battle is to preserve it from its enemies—the New Deal, that would convert it as if it were a twig that could be bent to suit the radicals of the day.

THE TOPIC FOR TODAY IS

Hog Feeding

This mixed feed is suggested for the feeder who has had wheat too good to use for straight hog feed and who has sent in will send it to the milling market.

WHEAT—1400 pounds ground light weight wheat or re-cleaned screenings which according to Henry & Morrison is almost as good for hog feed as heavy wheat.

OTHER GRAINS—300 pounds Wayne Grain Substitute which consists of ground corn, ground barley, fine ground oats, standard middlings, hominy feed, limestone and salt. This is a feed mixed at Allied Mills plant, is registered in Ohio with a guaranteed minimum protein of 10 per cent and is NOT an ambitious rumor has it; Cincinnati food corn. This feed adds variety.

SUPPLEMENT—300 pounds Wayne Hov 40 which needs no explanation for its performance.

The above feed mixed and delivered at today's prices offers a complete hog feed with 14.5 per cent protein at $35.50 per ton. A price less than hominy! And so much greater feed value! It's worth anyone's time to investigate.

CEDARVILLE GRAIN CO.

South Main Street Cedarville, Ohio
Telephone 21

A "thunder" asked for a ride out of Xenia, Monday, dressed in summer trousers and shirt, shoes fair. Well shaved and good looking, bound for Buffalo, N. Y. He had walked all night (Sunday) to keep warm, no coat and not able to get lodging from Cincinnati to Xenia. Had been five days on the "thumb" route from New Orleans, where he and a companion located last June. Occupation, restaurant or hotel cook, or second helper as a baker. Held one job eight weeks until government social security inspector found he was not registered. He and restaurant proprietor had agreed on terms satisfactory to both, the cook having a paid up union card in Buffalo union.

Uncle Sam's political snapper says if you work another day I will arrest both you and the proprietor. Proprietor says that can be arranged so he paid off the union cook and let him go. The cook registered and was numbered by the New Deal like a peddler hog or federal prisoner. Applied to union headquarters for a job as cook, none to be had, other restaurants were letting cooks go. Thousands of girls walking the streets hunting jobs having been laid off by employers to hold down the payments that would go to the New Deal Communists.

Taking his hand bag, hat and coat, it was his pick for home. Buffalo where a widowed mother would welcome a son, all she had was the widow's pension as a result of the father being in the war. Cook admitted he slipped a vote to Roosevelt against the advice of his mother who came from a Republican home. Now he says he has learned the same language southerners use when they talk behind the door of Roosevelt and the New Deal. Says what they call Farley would not look well in print and that New Dealers are pouring millions of dollars into Huey Long's state every month to keep the Long followers sweet and on some kind of a job. When asked about Long's death, he says Louisiana worshipped Huey and they mention names of New Dealers who ordered the Senator "plugged." When we parted the cook holding "union and social security cards says, thanks for the lift, your acquaintance and don't let anybody tell you that Roosevelt and John Lewis are not playing a racket on laboring men.

Roosevelt liquor to aid the cause of the more abundant life evidently has not gone so well down in Oxford, O., the seat of Miami University. Local booze emporiums in Oxford have been overly anxious and thrown all kinds of inducements to Miami students to indulge in the "flowing bowl." Citizens have become aroused and a local option election in town and township under the three branches of liquor certificates will be voted upon in November. President Upham in a public statement exhorts the electors to come to the defense of the students in that families send their children to Miami expecting a different influence. President Upham in taking the step he has is risking his job for the reason Miami like other state universities in Ohio, receive some federal aid. When you fight liquor you are stabbing Franklin D.

The liquor interests in Ohio induced the Democratic legislature four years ago to direct part of the liquor revenue to "old age" pensions, thinking the business was 100 per cent safe. The last Democratic legislature reduced the cost of licenses so that Ohio will have less revenue for old age pensions. Those holding the old licenses must pay the higher fee, according to a ruling of Attorney General Duffy. By surrendering the old license to the state board and applying for a new one they can get it at the reduced fee. The Democratic administrations in Washington as well as Columbus are doing their part to repay the liquor interests for campaign contributions. The taxpayers will be called upon to put up for old age pensions.

The Columbus Citizen has a fine illustrated article showing what has been done with state and federal money building a lake down in Democratic Pike county. The New Deal put in a pot full of money and the state under Gov. George White put up $200,000 to enrich a company composed of Democrats that held title to land rights about the lake, which has been completed. The Citizen exposes the use of public money for the enrichment of Democratic party. WPA and the "dollar standard" can now be seen in a site, at the Democratic "sugary," as termed by the Citizen, at a handsome price. State Chairman Francis Folsom, Cleveland, has purchased what contractors say is a $50,000 residence for the nominal sum of "less than $10,000." Democratic politicians have first choice of resort sites and the State of Ohio will pay the yearly cost of upkeep of the "duck pond" in the backwoods of southern Ohio.

Gov. Davey offers a plan of contributions that have to do with handling paroles for Ohio prisoners. Around Columbus there has been grumblings of the "public sale" of pardons and paroles since the days of former Governor George White. Recently a Columbus newspaper published a series of letters showing how most anyone could secure a parole, if the terms were met. The recent bandit shooting near Springfield where a policeman and a deputy sheriff were shot, as well as a bandit, was the direct result of liberating dangerous characters with prison records through the "for sale route." It has been proven that scouts representing certain politicians and some well-known Democratic attorneys have set up a system that has netted the leaders several hundred thousand dollars. Reputable attorneys, Democratic as well as Republican, have openly condemned what has been going on. The state pays high to convict gangsters and in return the gangsters pay high to get freedom through a corrupt set-up of Democratic politicians, each board having control of pardons and paroles, is responsible to the Democratic administration. No one can put that on the Republicans for each member has been named by Democratic powers. Governor Davey may mean well in proposing a change, in fact he should fire every member of these boards. He should call on the Ohio Bar Association to disbar every attorney sitting on these boards as well as attorneys that have conducted the auction for the benefit of the gangsters and for the profit to the Democratic politicians.

social security money was used to help hold up government bonds in Wall Street. One week the Roosevelt curse Wall Street, the next day they use government money to prime the government's own bond market. This indicates that American investors are not anxious to own the New Deal paper bonds. Tuesday, Roger Babson, noted economist, following the action of the government, predicted 20c dollars due to inflation and repudiation of the public debt. The government method of priming the bond market is not expected to give aid to general business, all lines showing a decided drop the last month.

AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS MAY HAVE TO GET LICENSES FROM CHICAGO MAIL ORDER HOUSE

In as much as all automobile owners must have new licenses by Sept. 30, the question arises as to how, when and where will drivers in this end of the county get the opportunity of putting up the fee to keep some deserving Democrat off the relief rolls. Regardless of published reports no licenses will be issued here but there is a good opportunity for some Democrat, if he has the necessary funds, to get a recommendation. It seems the appointee must "divvy" before the necessary papers are issued.

Certainly some Democrat on the relief roll should be able to finance such an appointment.

We are indebted to Mr. P. M. Gilman for a liberal offering of his fine Hale peaches. They were perfect specimen in color, form and size and for quality could not be exceeded.

Clean Water for Ponds

A location that will allow drainage from only clean pasture, or meadow should be chosen for the farm pond, says Marion Clark of the Missouri College of Agriculture. Water from barnyards and lots should never be allowed to drain into stock ponds. Where it is desirable to construct a pond where water from lots would normally drain into it, terraces should be used to intercept the contaminated water and carry it to another watershed where it will not pollute the pond water.

Grain Mixture for Poultry

There are several grains or combinations of grains that give satisfactory results, but the one most commonly used in all sections of this state, says a North Carolina State college poultryman, is composed of 60 per cent yellow corn and 40 per cent wheat. However, this ration should be largely governed by what is grown on the farm, and the cost of the grain which must be purchased. Where there is an abundance of heavy barley (48 pounds to the bushel) or heavy oats (38 pounds to the bushel), these may be substituted for a part of the corn and wheat, but should never exceed 30 per cent of the grain mixture.

Agricultural Notes

Hogs yield a greater proportion of edible meat than any other meat animals.

It is found that seven out of every 100 farm fires start when sparks land on a roof.

Among spring-seeded pastures, oats give the greatest pasturage in the shortest time and at the least cost.

Milk cows require from 100 to 200 pounds of water daily, it is stated by the Missouri experiment station.

More than 50 kinds of fruits and vegetables are of commercial importance in the United States.

For the past ten years the tobacco crop in the United States has averaged about 1,350,000,000 pounds, grown on 1,740,000 acres and having an estimated farm value of $214,000,000.

Use Cottage Cheese Alone Or In Salads

Cottage cheese is recommended especially for use in any weather by Miss Alma Garvin, nutrition specialist, Ohio State University, although she says this food either alone or in combination with others is a favorite at any time of year.

She declares that cottage cheese contains all the constituents of milk except the fat and is an excellent source of protein for building or repairing body tissues. Many home demonstration agents in the state have held schools where women have been taught to make this and other varieties of cheese.

Miss Garvin mentions berries, fresh fruits, canned fruits, raisins, brown sugar honey, jam or marmalade, and chopped nuts as some of the foods which are good companions for cottage cheese. Many women use quantities of cottage cheese in vegetable or fruit salads to which it adds attractiveness and food values.

Prunes stuffed with cottage cheese and served on lettuce leaves are liked by most families. Sometimes dates or figs are used instead of prunes. Cottage cheese balls rolled in chopped nuts and served on a slice of pineapple are also enjoyed.

An excellent salad which looks appealing can be made from green peppers and cottage cheese. The pulp is removed from the pepper and it is then stuffed with cheese. After standing in a cool place an hour, the stuffed peppers can be sliced for serving on lettuce leaves. Miss Garvin says most Ohio farm women know how to make good cottage cheese which will reduce living costs if this food is used in different form so the family does not tire of it.

Dr. Jurkat Gives Address On Constitution Before D. A. R. Meeting

In observance of Constitution Day which will be celebrated Friday, Dr. F. A. Jurkat, of the Cedarville College faculty, delivered an inspiring address on "The Constitution," when Cedar Cliff Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its first meeting of the 1937-38 season at the summer home of Miss Martha Cooley, Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Jurkat based his talk on a thought of William Gladstone: "Our constitution is the greatest writing of mankind. It took months and years to complete it with such men as George Washington at the head."

He discussed the trials and "disagreements" encountered by the men who drew up the constitution and declared: "The constitution should not be changed due to the hard work put on it by these men."

Mrs. Ervin Kyle, the new regent, presided and Mrs. Fred Dobbins conducted the D. A. R. ritual. Plans were announced for the southwest Ohio district meeting and luncheon at Ripley, September 29. A number from the Cedarville chapter will attend.

A social hour followed the meeting and a dessert course was served by Miss Cooley, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Turnbull.

Officers of Cedar Cliff Chapter for 1937-38 are Mrs. Kyle, regent; Mrs. Roger Henderson, vice regent; Mrs. Harry D. Wright, secretary; Mrs. Frank Turnbull, treasurer; Mrs. L. O. Davis, registrar, and Mrs. David McElroy, historian.

PIONEER STORIES OF OHIO

BY GILBERT F. DODDS

BUILDERS OF THE TERRITORY

The story of the early days of the Northwest Territory would not be complete if it did not contain an account of Winthrop Sargent, secretary of the Ohio Company.

His first services in the Ohio country, however, was as a surveyor on the Seven Ranges in 1786, when it was necessary to have soldiers accompany the men in their work. During this year at the meeting in Boston, at which the Ohio Company was organized, Sargent was appointed secretary and rendered valuable assistance to Manasseh Cutler in the purchase of the land which the company proposed to settle.

He reached Marietta in July, 1788, and took an active interest in planting the colony.

During the frequent and prolonged absences of Gov. Arthur St. Clair, Sargent assumed and discharged the executive responsibilities with firmness and impartiality. As a public servant was conscientious, energetic and patriotic.

Sargent contributed to the American Academy of Arts and Science, a "List of Forest and Other Trees Northwest of the River Ohio."

He was St. Clair's adjutant general in the expedition of 1791 against the Indians and in the disastrous defeat of November 4, he was twice wounded. He recovered at Fort Washington.

Can Beat Hessian Fly But Sawfly Increases

Examination of wheat fields in many Ohio counties this summer for the presence of insects attacking the crop proved that farmers are giving the Hessian fly a licking by observing correct seeding dates but another insect, the black stem sawfly is increasing in eastern Ohio, according to T. H. Parks, extension entomologist, Ohio State University.

Tests made in the fields disclosed only about one-third as many wheat plants infested with Hessian fly as in 1936. Mr. Parks says this indicates that nearly all farmers are sowing wheat after the date when the fly stops depositing eggs on plants. The date varies in the different counties but every agricultural agent knows the correct seeding date for his county.

The heaviest infestation of Hessian fly was found in Clermont county, with fields having 16 per cent of the wheat damaged. Tuscarawas county fields showed only two plants out of 1,000 with fly damage. Losses from Hessian fly in Ohio this year were the least since 1929.

The black stem sawfly is a new-comer in the state and now has extended its range to cover almost a third of the counties in northeastern Ohio. The larvae of this insect burrow inside wheat straw, and just before the wheat fully ripens, the straw is cut off just above the ground.

Unless infested wheat is harvested quite early, the heads on the severed stalks fall down and cannot be picked up with ordinary harvesting machinery. Mr. Parks thinks that a continued spread of this insect may interfere with the use of combines in the wheat harvest, as early harvest is the only method of preventing losses caused by the sawfly, and the combine works best in fully ripe grain.

Carroll, Columbiana, Tuscarawas, Mahoning, and Stark county wheat fields were damaged most by the sawfly. No control is known for the insect but early cutting saves most of the lodged plants. Fields were found in Carroll county where 66 per cent of the plants were infested with black stem sawfly this year.

The present unofficial relief committee can do a great service to the State, even though its functions are only a step in the right direction of a thorough state-wide investigation of the relief question. In my opinion, its failure to do so will leave the legislature and State in an uninformed and opinionated dilemma, due entirely to conflicting opinions created by conflicting information and the lack of an all-inclusive and factual relief picture, to which the taxpayers and the worthy recipients are entitled.

This unofficial committee is an outstanding example of the weakness in our present legislative facilities because this committee will be necessary pass out of existence if, as and when a special session is called for the purpose of relief, and the matter will then be considered by an official committee which is not, necessarily, the same committee personnel. All committees then pass out of existence with that special session so that another special session or a subsequent legislature starts all over again with an entirely new committee to consider the same headaches without the benefit of previous research.

Further quoting from the Youngstown Vindicator:

"Nevertheless, a modern civilized people ought to be able to create a fact-finding agency which would appease the sensibilities of the people and furnish information on which legislators might place complete reliance."

However, no fact-finding committee or agency will ever be established, nor can their findings be worked into a program until such time as public opinion is crystallized to the need for its creation.

All private business enterprises have their own neutral, strictly unbiased and fact-finding agencies without which they could not exist. For example, an insurance company. The same thing should be carried into public business, which is really more vital to the average citizen's everyday life.

Considering that legislative bodies have been entirely dependent upon the information gathered by the pros and cons on any question, it is amazing that a sufficient number of them have "guessed" right as often as they have.

The only cure for this situation is sufficient interest among the citizens and officials to give their time to the ascertaining and disseminating of all necessary facts, and who will then be able to obtain and maintain the backing of public opinion.

W. H. Stayton, executive director of Relief Associates, recently said: "The drys have held five states for prohibition; and what is genuinely overlooked, they have kept under prohibition about one-eighth of the population living in 31 wet states. The drys are organized, they are vocal, and they have an emotional hold on millions of potential voters whose hatred for the industry is being steadily cultivated."

The daily press carried the following July 28: "Americans drank enough hard liquor and malt beverages during the fiscal year ending June 30 to float a fleet of fifteen ships the size of the Queen Mary or the Normandie, figures released by the Bureau of Internal Revenue showed."

Skating Star's New Hit, "Thin Ice"!

Sonia Henie, that lovely star of the silver skates, again has Tyrone Power as her romantic idol in her new 20th Century-Fox picture, "Thin Ice," which will open a week's engagement at the Regent theater, in Springfield, Friday, September 17.

"Thin Ice," according to critics, is a splendid sequel to the skating champ's first hit, "One In A Million." The story is marked by a strong romantic plot and leads into many situations which afford Miss Henie an opportunity to display her ability and amazing speed on ice skates. She is surrounded in three big ballet scenes by a cast of several hundred skating beauties and also a chorus of male skaters.

Moviemakers who like the best in entertainment will make a point to see "Thin Ice," during its early engagement in Springfield, at the Regent for a week, beginning Friday.

BORDEN means MILK the world around

"Borden" is a big name in the milk world.

Yet Borden is only one of 12 principal concerns purchasing milk according to a recent Federal Trade Commission report. These 12 companies combined handle only about 13% of all commercial milk purchased in this country. The total Borden purchases are less than 7% of the nation's commercial milk production.

Borden buys milk in fewer than half of the 48 states, but sells in almost every community in the civilized world. Borden's salesmanship of milk and milk products and constant scientific research helps build a bigger market for all dairy farmers.
